

An additive linear model (solid lines) poorly approximates the true conditional mean function (dashed lines)

